DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 3 and 4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 3 to 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a steel material having a pearlite and/or ferrite microstructure as shown on Table 2 on page 8, does not reasonably provide enablement for "a material" which can include any metal from the periodic table, plastic, wood, etc. Note that claims recite any material, yet the specification only has working examples with steel having a pearlite/ ferrite microstructure. Hence claims are of a breadth which are not adequately supported by its specification. Also note that the fact that the terms in a claim are the same as those in the specification does not prevent the claim from being unduly broad if they define subject matter not described to be the actual invention by means of adequate representative examples.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1742

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims recite "the second material comprising at least one metal from the group consisting of Group V metals" yet it is unclear whether Group VB or/and Group VA is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hasegawa et al (US Patent No.6,162,307) or Takahashi et al (US Patent No. 5,601,667).

Hasegawa discloses specific materials containing Ti or Nb in Tables 1 and 2 of columns 11 and 12 which are processed by heating to 1150C (within applicant's temperature range of 1150-1250C) followed by hot forging and air cooling and tempering at 700C for 30 to 120 minutes (overlaps applicant's claimed range of 500 to 700C for 30 to 60 minutes) to form carbides and nitrides. See lines 19 to 53, column 7; and claim 4, columns 17 and 18. Although prior art discloses a dehydrogenation annealing and solution annealing on lines 30 to 33, column 7, such would not be excluded from applicant's claims which recite "comprising". Moreover, these steps are optional since they are not required in claim 4 of columns 17 and 18.

Takahashi discloses specific materials containing Ti or V in Table 1 of columns 5 and 6 which are processed by hot forging at 1050-1200C followed by cooling to form a ferrite-bainite microstructure and aging 200-700C (overlaps applicant's tempering range of 500-700C) to form vanadium carbides and nitrides. See lines 25-40, column 11 and claim 1, column 14. Although natural cooling is not specifically disclosed, such would be well within the skill of the artisan to incorporate since air cooling similar to water and oil are conventional quenchants in the metallurgical art, and it would be a matter of choice depending on the desired hardness and number of precipitates, which is productive of no new and unexpected results.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
